Touring history

Hundreds of Merriman Elementary School Students took "A Tour Through History" last Thursday as 50 of their peers took on the roles of many famous persons they had read about in Shirley Germaine's social studies classes. Romulus man shot to death in Taylor

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A 40-year-old Romulus man was slain late Saturday night in a Taylor tavern and a second victim was reportedly shot about the same time at an undisclosed site in Romulus.

The murder victim was identified as David Allan Morgan. According to Taylor Detective Don Portice, the victim was shot both in the chest and the back of the head.

Portice said police were told Morgan and the accused gunman, Reid Lawrence, 48, of Ypsilanti, had earlier been involved in an altercation in the men's room of the Baby Doll Bar of 5915 Inkster Road, Taylor.

When the pair came out of the restroom, police were told Lawrence confronted Morgan again. Morgan told him to "get away" and Lawrence then pulled a 380 semi-automatic pistol and fired two shots in front of startled customers, according to police accounts of the incident.

Morgan was rushed to Heritage Hospital in Taylor and was pronounced dead at 11:57 p.m.

Taylor police confiscated the weapon and arrested Lawrence and charged him with first degree murder.

He was arraigned in 23rd District Court and ordered held without bail pending his examination at 9 a.m. April 8.

In a separate incident, Romulus police said a shooting victim identified as Darrell Jackson, 23, of Ypsilanti, was dropped off at Annapolis Hospital at 11:50 p.m. Saturday.

Romulus police said after dropping Jackson at the hospital, an unidentified men fled without saying a word.

Jackson was treated for a bullet wound of the left hip and was kept in the hospital intensive care unit.

While Jackson has not been questioned because of his wounds at this time, police said it appears the shooting may have occurred somewhere near the Romulus Civic League at 11495 Wahrman St.

Willie Hester, president of the Civic League, said an event was scheduled at the Civic League building Saturday night, but all reports he has received indicate there was no shooting in the building.

Hester said he has not been questioned by police at this time.

According to Romulus police, Jackson is listed in stable condition at the hospital.

Local business owners meet with county, airport officials

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County government and Metro Airport officials are battling to regain the confidence of Romulus business and industrial owners, who are being impacted by the planned expansion of Metro Airport.

Romulus business owners, such as Bill Yochum, owner of Overhead Crane on Crane Road, are demanding to know time frames for the planned airport expansion efforts, so that the transitional period will not impact negatively on their efforts or their customers.

Equally important is the need to get an acceptable price for the property they will be asked to vacate, so that they do not have to resort to court battles, which are costly and time consuming, Yochum said.

Several business owners said they were promised a qualified offer on their property as early as last Thanksgiving. They are still awaiting these offers, they said.

County and airport officials met on March 25 with many of the affected business owners at a luncheon at the Holiday Inn. The session was sponsored by the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

Yochum said business owners, who are involved with heavy machinery, need extra time for transitional purposes. "For instance," he said, "we would need six to nine months after we get a fair buyout price, because we need to have parallel facilities in operation prior to our move."

Yochum said as of Tuesday morning he was still awaiting a phone call from Deputy Airport Director Lester Robinson on up-to-date time periods affecting his property. Robinson reportedly has begun the local contact effort.

Robinson explained the airport growth plans to the group and urged them to stay in contact with his office. He promised to give all business owners the most up to date information, he has at the time.

Mayor Beverly McAnally and city Community Development Director Dennis Oakes supported the cries of the local business owners and pressed for better communication between the county transition team and the affected business owners.

McAnally expressed concerns about delays in the appraisal and purchase offers for homes and business in the path of airport expansion. "I hope this is settled in my lifetime," she quipped near the end of the meeting."

Oakes said "Wayne County may not care if you business owners relocate in Romulus or Livonia, but we sure do. We definitely want to do everything in our power to keep you all here."

Oakes said later that Romulus City Government has been telling Wayne County officials, "They owe an obligation to local property owners to draw up a schedule as to when they need to abandon their properties. In addition the county as well should be working diligently to retain these businesses within the city's boundaries."

The major business owners, who were attending the special meeting, said any potential 90-day notice to demand they move from their current premesis would be fought.

Robinson promised to work closer with the business leaders to set up property time sequences and tried to relieve some of the anxiety by stating any changes in time schedules would be for later action dates rather than earlier.

County Commissioner Bryan Amann said, "My job is to be your mouthpiece in Wayne County Government. We give you our commitment to provide as up-to-date information as we have on a regular basis."

Amann also agreed that county and airport officials would agree to come back in July (or any other any time) to give a group update.

"We know your concern about previous efforts in the county," he said, "and we do not want this to be 'Nightmare in Wayne County Revisited'"

Amann said he had talked to Robinson Saturday and the information was beginning to

Success story

Center aids widow overcome grief

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Marge Krause loves to read novels.

But her personal "Lost Weekend", which began on May 31 last year, would rival any masterpiece in the Romulus Public Library today.

It began when her husband, Joseph, left their Romulus home to try out some new fishing lure at Belleville Lake about 8 a.m.

Concerned that their son, David, also of Romulus, was coming to visit them at 7 that night, she reminded her husband of the planned visit as he opened the door to leave. Krause said he called back, "Don't worry I'll be back long before that."

When he failed to return by 5 p.m., Krause said she began to get concerned. After her son arrived later, she told him his father hadn't returned from the lake yet.

Her son later found his father's parked car, but found no sign of his dad.

Because of the 92-degree temperatures, a quick helicopter and searchlight search was begun at the lake. The raft Krause used was found, but it also was discovered one of the oars was broken.

Worried that the 73-year-old fisherman may have collapsed from the heat and fallen either in the lake or the wooded area surrounding it, police called in dogs to sniff out the terrain. But they too came up empty.

On June 2, Krause's body finally was found floating in the lake by visitors walking in the area.

The toughest part for Krause was the fact that she was never allowed to view her husband's body--"So I never got a real chance to say goodbye," she said.

Settling her husband's estate took the better part of several months, she said, and then the feelings of finality began to set in.

Having retired two years before from her job as head bank teller, Krause realized "I've got to get out of the house."

Krause, (whose maiden name was Marguerite Clark), had lived in Romulus for 40 years, said she had planned to get involved with the Romulus Senior Center before her husband's death--"but never got around to it."

Center Director Marilyn Masters began talking to Krause and sensed the new widow's lonliness and invited her to begin attending luncheons.

Krause began signing up for trips, both in the area and out-of-state, and started once again to get an emotional handle on her life.

While sharing experiences with other widows at the center, Mrs. Krause said, she still can't break the habit of saying "we" or "our" even now 10 months after her husband's death.

"The hardest thing is to accept the finality of it. But I know if I hadn't gotten involved here (pointing to the senior center rooms), I know I would be sitting gloomily in my house in a bathrobe--growing more embittered by the day."

Publisher considers lawsuit against board

Associated Newspapers, Inc. Publisher Susan Willett confirmed this week that she and corporate counsel Michael Wampler are discussing the possibility of filing a civil lawsuit against two members of the Wayne-Westland school board.

Willett requested prosecutorial action from the office of the Wayne County Prosecutor claiming that board president Sylvia Kozorosky- Wiacek and board vice president Vicki Welty violated the provisions of the Open Meetings Act last October. Willett contends that the two took official action prior to any meeting of the board, thereby disenfranchising the voters and the press and were in violation of the law.

Both Kozorosky-Wiacek and Welty have confirmed publicly that they did, in fact, go to the office of the Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dennis O'Neill and tell him his contract would not be renewed. They also stated publicly that they had made phone calls and inquired of the other members of the board as to their votes on the matter, scheduled to be discussed at a future meeting of the board members. While admitting to the actions, both Kozorosky-Wiacek and Welty have denied any wrongdoing in the incident.

Willett contends that by acting prior to any public meeting, public discussion was avoided and any dissenting opinions were not aired, thereby disenfranchising an entire segment of the community.

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Frank Bernacki informed Willett in a letter that the retirement of O'Neill had "mooted the issue."

Bernacki suggested that Willett now had the opportunity to file a civil lawsuit against the board members and, if successful, recover all costs and attorney fees.

A decision on the civil suit is expected this week, Wampler confirmed.

Psychologist slated to speak

A series of three free programs for parents of school age children is planned for the next six weeks at the Romulus Public Library.

Early development of preschool to early elementary age children will be discussed at 7 p.m. April 14. Focus of the talk by Sam Olive, Romulus school psychologist, will be developmental stages and early identification of potential problems.

Adolescence through junior high issues will be discussed at 7 p.m. April 28. Olive will focus this session on problems and pressures facing young people today.

Motivation and homework will be the topic 7 p.m. May 12 with Olive focusing on getting students to take responsibility for their own performance.

Fitzhugh enters U.S. Air Force

John H. Fitzhugh, son of Timothy and Marie Fitzhugh of Romulus, has entered the U.S. Air Force and is undergoing six weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, according to Staff Sergeant Rusty Jibson, the Air Force recruiter at 15195 Farmington Road.

Fitzhugh is a 1991 graduate of Romulus Senior High School.

Snow removal unit opens at airport

A new snow removal equipment building–with 60 oversized bays– has opened at the Metropolitan Wayne County Airport in Romulus.

The snow removal operation was formerly housed in a 1929 era hanger- terminal.

The new operational site contains 90,000 square feet, 10,000 square feet more than the previous site, and is located on a ramp leading to the airfield making it a much more timely and efficient system.

The building is the first of three units in a maintenance complex planned for the west side of the airport. The $11 million complex is scheduled to be completed in the spring of 1993.

flow from the airport offices to local businessmen.

But his comment that the county would be glad to talk to any business owner's attorney on the status of the airport expansion fell on hostile ears.

Yochum said, "You say that because you are an attorney. Every time I talk to my attorney it costs me about $150. If he then has to talk to you it could cost me up to $500. Why can't we just talk to you directly?"

Amann said the county has received some complaints about the appraisal effort. "But we are not trying to hide behind Farbman-Stein (a broker firm from Troy hired by Wayne County to oversee this land purchase issue)."

State Commerce Department Development Director Larry Gormezano offered to help property owners with any environmental issues. He also said his office has a computerized list of sites throughout Wayne County and in downriver communities."

But both McAnally and Oakes expressed hopes the business property owners would "shop Romulus first."

Chamber Vice president Mark Lewkowicz, who moderated the session, said he was glad he was not in the local businessmen's shoes. He said "I have heard some of you will be losing your homes, as well as your business sites."

Chamber President Dennis Worsley revealed the chamber had worked two to three months to set up the meeting between local business owners and the federal, state, county and airport officials.

"We were told we'd never get everyone together at one time. Today's turnout of all involved--as well as local bankers--shows the nay sayers were wrong."

School financing

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Charging the Romulus Community School District is acting in a "stupid and financially unsound" way, Romulus City Planning Commission member Sheldon Chandler is demanding to know why new parking lots were installed at both the junior and senior high schools recently and now are being torn up by construction vehicles.

Chandler, who lives near the junior high school, said, "I'm retired, so I get to see what is happening there on a regular basis."

"Who is co-ordinating this building development program?" he asked, "and why are they in such a hurry to spend that $45 million?" The amount listed was approved by a past school referendum.

"A lot of Romulus people are being affected by the school's tax rate imposed by administrators--who don't even live in the community," Chandler said.

He claimed 80-ton gravel train units travel through the junior high school parking lot, returning the asphalt to about the same condition it was prior to the upgrading.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell claimed the current building process is planned.

"We initially put down a base of crushed stone and 2 1/2 inches of asphalt--simply as a base for the parking lot," he said.

"We were then advised to ride on the lot for a year or more--during the building construction period," Bedell said, "and when the construction efforts are done to add another 1 1/2 inch topping to the finished parking lots."

The cost for the two parking lots, when completed will be about $200,000, Bedell concluded.

Four agencies share grant funding

By AL POST

Four social service agencies and two city projects shared the $92,520 in Community Development Block Grant funds Monday night.

The Community Development Department garnered the biggest single chunk of the funds ($30,545). It will be used toward the cost of engineering and construction of sidewalks along the southside of Goddard Road from Wayne Road to the Romulus Post Office.

The sidewalk project is slated to begin this fall.

The Building, Safety and Engineering Department also was awarded $20,000 toward the $150,000 cost for demolishing up to 33 structures in the 1992-93 fiscal year.

The Romulus Help Center was given two grant awards: $15,000 for service to youth (counseling and referrals to other agencies) and $13,000 for senior citizen home repairs, homemaker assistance and personal care projects.

First Step Counseling given $7,500 to continue its services for low and moderate income residents, who are battered spouses or abuse victims.

The Adolescent (Teen) Health Center–located at Romulus High School-- was awarded $5,000 to provide health care to low and moderate income students at the high school.

The average cost to the student patient is $6.17.

The Informational Center, headquartered in Southgate, was awarded two grants of $725 and $750 for working with senior citizens and conducting Project Near that provides low cost alternate chore and homemaker services to older adults.

The city of Romulus also was given an additional $10,280 to administer the funding program.

Weekends are now the toughest part of the week for her, as there is no time to meet there with her friends, while enjoying hot meals."

"I haven't cooked since last June," she laments. Even though she was never a big breakfast eater, Krause said "I now travel to a nearby Hardee's Restaurant to have breakfast there so she can talk to the workers and customers."

During the weekdays now, she uses her VCR to tape late night movies and views them during the lonely weekend periods. She also loves to read novels by Danielle Steele and others. "I don't read to gain knowledge at this point in my life, I read to enjoy myself."

In addition she has purchased 59 house plants and filled her yard with 159 tulips "which are just beginning to bloom," she said.

She also urges fellow single senior citizens with health problems to rent "Lifelines" equipment from Oakwood Hospital for $20 a month. She cautioned them not to get involved with the TV ad models, which cost thousands of dollars.

As she battles her weekend lonesome periods, Mrs. Krause said she gets a great deal of solace from a poem entitled "Miss Me, But Let Me Go."

Romulus woman is 'top teacher'

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Karen Dillon of Romulus, a veteran Trenton mathematics teacher, has been named "Teacher of the Year" in the Trenton school district.

Dillon said she feels she was selected March 19, because of her work in the community, as well as with her students.

She has been active with the Environmental Task Force on Metro Airport noise and was a member of the Technical Coordinating Committee on the noise study issue.

In addition, Dillon has also been active as a chaperone at student parties, proms and senior class events and has been a team leader of the Trenton High School improvement effort.

Born in Pennsylvania, she has been a Mighigan teacher for 29 years, serving seventh and eighth grade math pupils for 18 years and Trenton High School students for the last 11 years.

She has received a plaque at a Trenton Public Schools Board of Education meeting. Her name will be submitted for state wide recognition.

The greatest excitement in being a teacher today, she said, is, "Seeing the light go on in a student's mind while they are studying math."

The other delight is seeing former students return to her and relating how valuable they felt their association with her was during their school years, Dillon explained.

Outside of school, Dillon is happy to assist neighbors in Romulus with tax credit issues and other problems at no charge to them.

She also enjoys computer work, seamstress activities, gardening and fresh water fishing in Canada.

Her husband, Roy, an employee of the Rouge Steel Plant in Dearborn, is a member of Mayor Beverly McAnally's Drug Task Force.

City sets public hearing

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A proposal to eliminate "Old Ecorse Road" will be aired at a public hearing at 7 p.m. April 13 at Romulus City Hall.

Members of city council approved the hearing after receiving the request from City Clerk Linda Choate requesting, "the vacation of Service Drive D north of Ecorse Road, more commonly known as 'Old Ecorse Road' at Inkster Road.

David Paul, director of the department of building, safety and engineering, originally wrote a memorandum to Mayor Beverly McAnally stating, "As you are aware, Memories Lounge is relocating on the northwest corner of Inkster and Ecorse Roads" and a recommendation was made that the Service Drive D be vacated.

The portions impacted by the action would be:

- 20 feet of the right of way of Old Ecorse Road fronting lots 1 through 31 of Stabley's Subdivision.
- 27 feet of the right of way front lots 1 through 8.
- The right of way of Beauchamp Avenue measuring 60 feet in width by 100 feet in length.
- The right of way of Ola Avenue measuring 107 feet in length by 60 feet in width.
- The alley in Stabley's Subdivision measuring 20 feet in width by 753.2 feet in length.

Local businessman makes power play

Romulus business owner C.J. Batten set a record with his most recent "power play."

The Van Buren Township resident, who owns and operates Batten Corp. in Romulus, set a powerlifting mark in the World Powerlifting Association Championships in Lancaster, Pa.

Batten, 48, laid claim to his second consecutive WPA World Masters title in the 45-49-year-old bracket of his weight class. He set a new world record with a 465-pound bench press that broke his own existing world record. Batten now owns virtually all world and national records in his age and weight category, and his efforts in the WPA meet aided the USA team to finish first, followed by Canada.

The local champion is a member of the American Drug-Free Powerlifting Association which will compete in the WDFPF World Master Powerlifting Championships at Norwich, England, in July.

C.J. Batten

Batten owns and operates Batten Corp., a Romulus-based company which designs and manufactures automotive engine components for the "Big Three" automakers.

And the winners are. . .

After the winners of the 1992 Oscars were announced, The Silence of the Lambs was found to have devoured the competition in four categories.

The award-winning film was honored as best picture. Oscars also were awarded to its director and two stars, Jonathan Demme, Anthony Hopkins and Jodie Foster.

Coincidentally, four contestants in the Associated Newspapers Oscar Contest picked the winning film, best actor and best actress. However, none of the four were able to correctly predict that Mercedes Ruehl would win an Oscar for her supporting role in The Fisher King.. A fifth contestant picked the best film, best actor and best director but failed to name the Foster as the best actress. Unlike the other four contestants, she was able to name Ruehl as best supporting actress.

Consequently, a drawing will be conducted to determine which of the five entrants who correctly named five out of six Oscar winners will receive the top prize. The person selected in the drawing will receive 12 movie passes. Runners-up will each receive two movie passes. In the running for the top prize are two Inkster residents, a Wayne resident and movie-goers from Belleville and Garden City. Following the drawing, each of the winners will be notified and their names will be announced in the April 5 editoin of the Sunday Eagle & Enterprise.

Undoubtedly, some of the movies viewed by the five winners will be among the films which will be under consideration for the 1993 Oscar nominations, and they will have a start on choosing the winners next year.

Local vocational center wins national accreditation

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Deputy Editor

The William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center has been accepted as a member of the largest accreditation assocation in the entire country.

The school, which is located in Westland, was admitted to North Central Accreditation Wednesday. The information was disclosed at a NCA conference in Chicago.

"Accreditation by the NCA means that the school has met the standards set for membership," said Greg Baracy, principal at the Votech Center.

"These standards signify that the school has the resources, personnel and leadership necessary for effective education."

At the conference Dr. William Bushaw, the director of NCA congratulated Wayne-Westland school district officials. "The William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center has now joined the growing league of schools whose purpose is the continuing quest for higher levels of quality education," Bushaw said.

NCA has approximately 7,000 schools that are members. Both John Glenn High School and Wayne Memorial High School have also been accredited by NCA officials.

Students who attend accredited high schools have an advantage over those who don't when it comes time to apply to colleges and universities. If two students apply with the same grade point averages and the same scores on the standardized tests, but one attends an accredited school and the other does not, the student who attends the accredited school would have a better chance of being accepted to that school, according to Wayne-Westland school officials.

Each year both Wayne-Westland high schools receive a visit from officials at NCA and the University of Michigan. The accreditors examine the resources available in the librairies, talk with teachers and other building staff members, examine textbooks used and other instructional materials.

> "Continuation within the NCA requires a joint effort by the community and the staff to make certain that the potentiality for quality education remains unimpaired.
> - Dr. Thomas Svitkovich
> deputy superintendent of schools

"Continuation within the NCA requires a joint effort by the community and the staff to make certain that the potentiality for quality education remains unimpaired," said Dr. Thomas Svitkovich, deputy superintendent of schools. "The advantage of NCA membership is that it assures the public at large that the school has met those standards which good schools in the NCA region consider to be imperative for effective education to take place."

Before either high school could be accredited by NCA, the schools had to receive accreditation from the University of Michigan, according to school officials.

The district was at risk of losing accreditation two years ago, when program cuts had been implemented in the district due to financial dificulties.

The successful approval of a millage increase last June restored the programs and eliminated the risk of losing accreditation at both high schools.

Lions roar in high school game

By DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the National Football League Detroit Lions displayed their athletic ability for a capacity crowd at John Glenn High School in Westland March 26 when the athletes took on the school staff for a game of basketball.

Wide receivers Willie Green and Mike Farr, kicker Eddie Murray, tight end Derek Tennell, offensive lineman Ken Dallafior and linebacker Mike Cofer traded the gridiron for the hardwood in an effort to collect money for the football boosters association.

The hoopsters representing the teaching staff at John Glenn were George Sommerman, Don Sisko, Jess Shough, Jerry Saukaitis, Pat Bennett, Ron Staples, Mike Henry, Greg Anderson, Bill Kelly, brothers Todd and Kal Deluca, Craig Hnatuk and Tom Kostora.

"We're here for fun," said Bennett, basketball coach at John Glenn. "It's a fun challenge to compete, as minor as it is, against these guys."

John Frieders, president of the John Glenn Football Boosters, said the event was expected to earn as much as $2,000. "More importantly it's an opportunity for all the young kids who got a chance to meet some of their idols and see them one-on-one," Bennett said.

"It's only pocket change," said Lion receiver Wille Green, "but it will help. We here to help."

"A lot of kids, and adults, don't get a chance to get into the Silverdome," he added, "so we get out into the community and show what kind of people we are, that we care. We do care about people."

The Lions built a 38-29 lead at half time, which was puctuated by a thundering slam dunk by Coffer just before the buzzer. But three-point baskets by the host team help to keep the final score a respectible 74-69 as the teams traded baskets in the second half.

"The score didn't make much of a difference," said Bennett. "It's just fun."

Park project on schedule

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

> "The city has been awarded grant monies for the first portion of this project, and we are awaiting legislative approval of the grant.
> - Debbie Manns
> Community Development Director

The second phase of the Goudy Park Development project in Wayne was launched earlier this week.

Improvements to the park include the installation of an observation deck as well as placement of boulders along the river bed and the establishment of various planting areas around the boulders, according to Community Development Director Debbie Manns.

Councilman Al Damitio wanted to know why boulders were needed in the park. City Manager John Zech said boulders will assist against slope erosion.

"Sometimes the Rouge does get quite high in that area so the boulders are necessary," Zech said.

Other improvements to the park include the addition of lights around a path on Wayne and Elizabeth roads at Washington Park. There will also be a path and lights on Second and Josephine streets at Mill Trail Park.

The first phase of the Goudy Park project which is now completed includes a walking path stretching around the Rouge River and the addition of playground equipment, park bench tables and more parking space.

Lights were also situated along the walk path. A scenic overlook platform deck was constructed off the ridge and over the floodplain.

Excavation work has already begun on the Amphitheatre behind City Hall. Wayne residents will soon be able to enjoy outdoor music during the summer and ice skating in the winter once the amphitheatre is completed.

The amphitheater project is expected to be completed by the end of July and the Washington/Mill Trail project to be completed by the end of May, according to Community Development Director Debbie Manns.

"With the amphitheatre project all the electrical utilities will be placed underground," Manns said.

City officials will soon be applying for a grant for Avondale, Forest and Jaycee park improvement projects through the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Land and Water Trust fund and Quality of Life Recreation Bond programs.

Improvements being proposed for Avondale Park include the installation of player benches, bleachers and the relocation of some existing playground equipment and fencing, according to Manns.

"The proposed improvements constitute phase two of the Avondale Redevelopment plan," Manns said. "The city has been awarded grant monies for the first portion of this project, and we are awaiting legislative approval of the grant. We would like to apply for $62,260 for the second phase of the project."

The grant application for Forest Playfield will include the establishment of a picnic grove, the installation of baseball backstops and bleachers and some landscaping improvements.

"We would like to apply for $55,000 to make these improvements," Manns said.

The proposed improvements for Jaycee Park include the demolition of the Jaycee park building, resurfacing of the existing tennis courts and the installation of various pieces of playground equipment. City officials will be applying for a $75,000 grant for this project.

"If these projects are funded by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, it will be necessary for the city to match these grants on a 75 percent to 25 percent basis," Manns said. "This means the city would be required to finance 25 percent of the proposed projects."

Council members agreed last week to approve the request for grant applications on the various park projects.

Wayne man charged with child abuse

A Wayne man will be sentenced April 30 before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge M. John Shamo on charges of fourth degree child abuse.

Wayne police arrested and charged Ernest Joseph Folse III, 41, with child abuse in an incident which involved his 5-year-old son, according to Wayne Deputy Police Director John Colligan.

"We can't say anymore about the incident since it involves a juvenile," Colligan said.

On Feb. 19 Folse appeared for a court examination before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold. Folse was bound over to Recorder's Court with the bond continued.

Folse cannot have any contact with his child unless the visit is supervised, according to Archbold. The child is now in a foster care home.

Folse was originally charged with third degree child abuse.

Fate of Westland Center still unknown to area leaders

and
DENNIS MANSFIELD
ANP Staff Writer

> If I was going to put up a mega-mall, I know exactly where I would put it. I would put it on a piece of property located west of Canton Center Road and south of Ford Road.
> - Westland Mayor Robert Thomas

Westland Mayor Robert Thomas is still hopeful that the sale of Westland Center will occur.

Since last year, officials from the Chicago-based Homart Development Company have made numerous visits to Westland to discuss their plans for the mall which is currently owned by Atlanta-based Equitable Real Estate Developers.

Thomas is concerned that the one of the major retail anchors at the mall, Hudson's, will not sign a new lease when the current lease expires in 1995.

He is also concerned that available land in nearby Canton Township may be purchased by developers who would then build a mega-mall which could deter retailers from Westland Center to the newer mall.

"I had heard rumors that somebody was trying to put together or assemble a piece of property near the freeway and Ford Road," Thomas said. "I don't have any other information about that.

"If I was going to put up a mega-mall, I know exactly where I would put it," Thomas said. "I would put it on a piece of property located west of Canton Center Road and south of Ford Road."

If a mega-mall is coming to Canton Township, township officials have not been told to roll out the red carpet.

"Don't know anything about it. We may be the last to know," said Tom Yack, Canton Township supervisor. "I don't know where they would build such a facility."

A lack of a suitable location could present a problem. None of the property west of Canton Center Road is zoned for commercial development. Yack said the only two locations with land properly zoned for a mega-mall would be near the intersections of I-275 and Ford Road, and I-275 and Michigan Avenue.

If the right site and right deal are available, Yack said a mall-type facility would receive a warm welcome in Canton.

"We have zoned the community to facilitate developments of that type and we would look carefully at any proposal," he added.

Homart officials have also expressed an interest in building a Sears Store and a 1,500-car parking garage on to Westland Center. Homart is a division of Coldwell Banker which is a division of Sears.

Thomas believes the sale of Westland Center hinges on whether Hudson's officials decide to sign a new lease. He is also concerned that time might deter Homart officials.

"I don't want to lose Sears or the parking garage," Thomas said.

City officials have discussed the possiility of paying for a portion of the parking garage with dollars from the Tax Increment Finance Authority.

"The TIFA offer is still open," Thomas said. "We have the dollars for the parking structure."

More Detroit suburban savers and investors

If your business has anything to do with banking, consumer lending, investing, or any other financial services, this is the best possible place for your ad to appear.

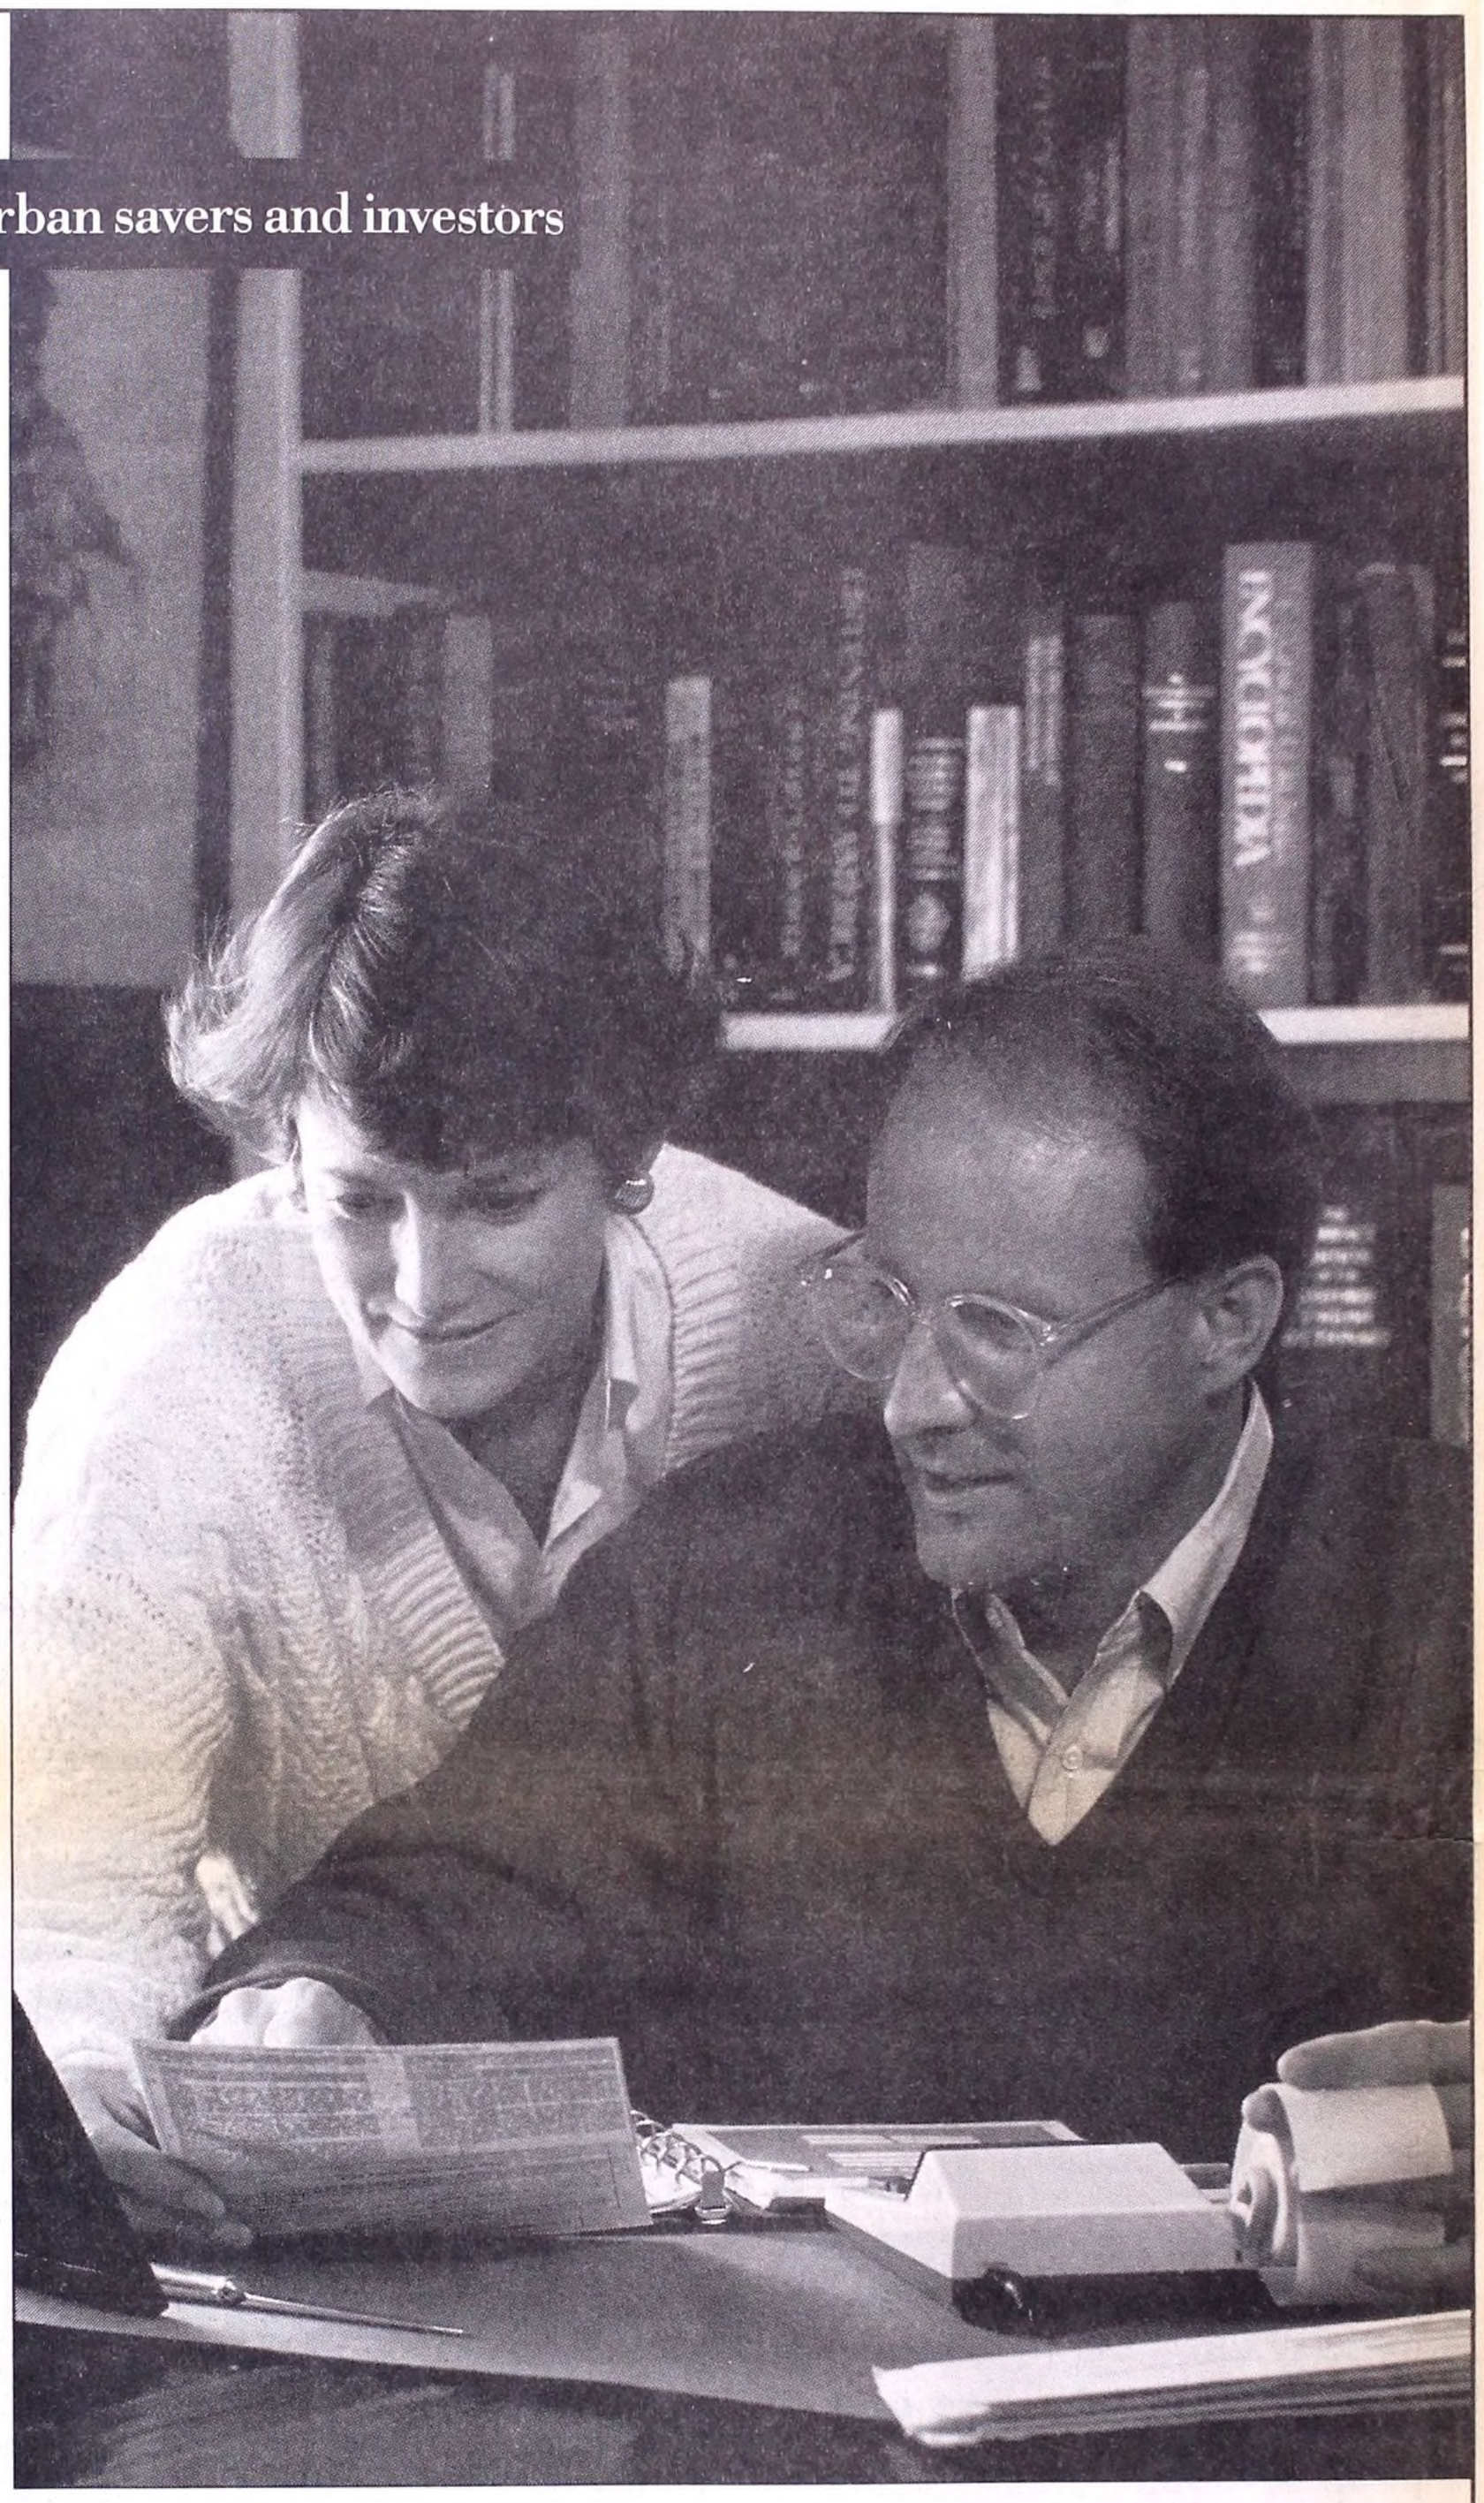
Because this is one of the fifty SPRING Newspapers.

And the SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden newspaper readership study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more to spend—and who spend more.



▶ 151,800 more suburban savings account users than the daily News (68,100 more than the Free Press).

▶ 109,000 more suburban NOW account users than The News (41,000 more than the Free Press).

▶ 121,700 (and 31,900) more suburban investors.

Not to mention more suburban buyers of new cars, boats, jewelry, $200,000+ homes, etc.

Simply put, one order in SPRING delivers more.

Shouldn't you advertise in SPRING more?

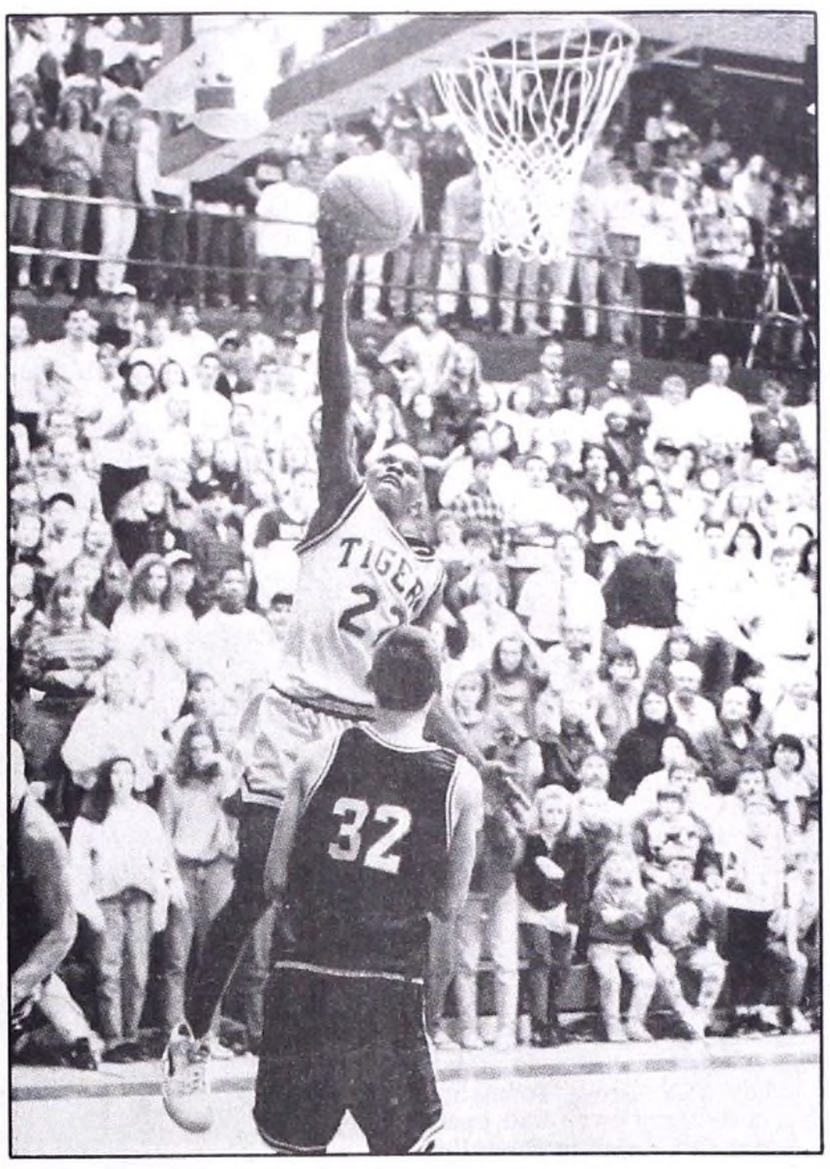
All-Area Basketball Team



Chuck Henry is coach of the year

Basketball is a way of life for Wayne Memorial coach Chuck Henry.

Some would say, after reviewing his success, it's his only life.

It's no secret that if you are a coach and covet the Wolverine 'A' title, you're going to have to battle Henry's team for it.

However, the way Henry manages to produce winners year after year is a secret. After all, he has never had a Chris Webber or a Johnny Long or Terry Mills in his lineup. What he has managed to do through the years is to attract "kids who love to play basketball" and put a cohesive unit on the floor that is tough to beat.

Take this year, for example. Sure he had eight seniors in the lineup, but there wasn't a player who stood over 6-3. Without size, you aren't going to go far in basketball. And yet this group went undefeated in their conference, won a district title, and reached the regional finals where they lost a barnburner to the No. 1 ranked Class A team in the state, Detroit Cooley. Wayne finished with an incredible 19-4 record.

How did Henry and his team manage it?

"We had eight seniors with talent and experience," Henry said. "We didn't have a real standout, but we had at least four players who scored consistently in double figures. More than one player usually could be counted on to contribute, and that's what made this team a winner."

Chuck Henry

Henry has produced six conference and four district championships during his 10-year tenure as head coach. He has a remarkable 158-44 record during that period.

And, before we close the books on the 1991-92 campaign, there's yet another honor that the Associated Newspapers' Sports Staff would like to bestow on the Wayne coach. Chuck Henry is our choice for the Coach of the Year.

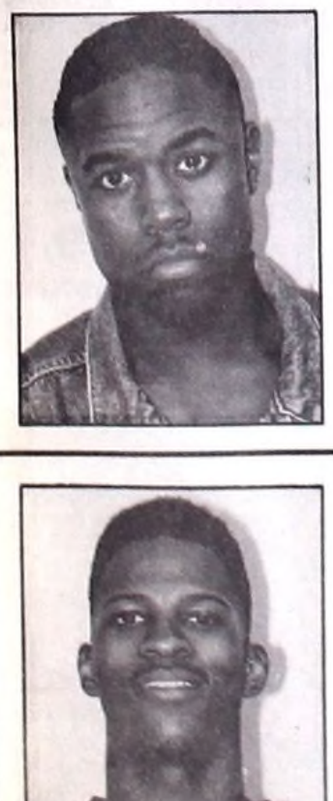
Rick Barnes, Wayne Memorial MVP, did the impossible for Coach Chuck Henry's conference championship team. Like coming up with the clutch basket when needed. Steals at crucial times. Free throws that kept the team going. He averaged 13 points per game and collected 10 rebounds per outing in leading the Zebras to a perfect 14-0 Wolverine "A" Conference season and a district championship. Rick was an unanimous conference pick for all-league honors.

Tyrone Hicks is among the best athletes ever to don a Belleville cage uniform. The 6-7 center-forward, who is heading for Central Michigan University this fall, tossed in 18 points and 10.1 rebounds per game to lead the Tigers to a district crown and into the regional finals. Like Barnes, Hicks also was named unanimously by the coaches to the all-Wolverine "A" team. "He is a phenomenal athlete and also an outstanding student," said Coach Michael Garland.

Albert White is only a freshman but he already has scores of college scouts looking at him. For many reasons. The 6-5, 238-pound athlete is a force to reckon with under the boards, and his ability earned him the coveted title of Freshman of the Year in the noted-for-basketball Suburban Athletic Conference. White amassed 358 points this year and would-you-believe averaged 16.5 rebounds a game. He also had four blocked shots per outing.

Hal Heard is a self-made basketball player, according to Coach Dave VanWagoner. The 6-5 Plymouth-Canton senior finished his second year on varsity with a 17-point, 11-rebound per game average. Also an all-conference selection, Heard helped form the nucleus of a team that posted a 19-4 overall record. The Chiefs went on to win a Class A district title. "Hal's great success stems from the fact that he puts in the time and works diligently at all phases of the game."

Mike Abraham was one of two players who kept Salem in the thick of every game and the title chase this season. A 6-5 senior, whose credentials also include two years of varsity experience, Abraham scored at a 14-point per game clip. He also could be counted upon he nab 10 rebounds per game. "Mike and James Head (the other player) were indispensable to this team," stressed Coach Bob Brodie, who finished his eighth year as head coach at Salem.



Kevin Champion, an unselfish player, led the Westland John Glenn cagers in assists. His playmaking ability and uncanny ability to find the "open man" made the Rockets a threat and also made them a title contender. "Kevin made this team click," said Coach Pat Bennett. "He was a tireless player whose work ethics were copied by the younger players. He's one of the reasons why we managed to salvage a winning season."

Tyzedd Boles, the lone representatives to make All-Area from a traditionally-talented Romulus High, also earned MVP honors for the Eagles this season. A 6-2 junior, who was given the responsibility by Coach Chris Molloy to guard the opposition's top scorer, Boles got the job done. And he also managed to contribute 10.4 points and 7.3 rebounds per game. "Because he was assigned to guard the top scorer, Boles usually worked overtime out there. He did an outstanding job.

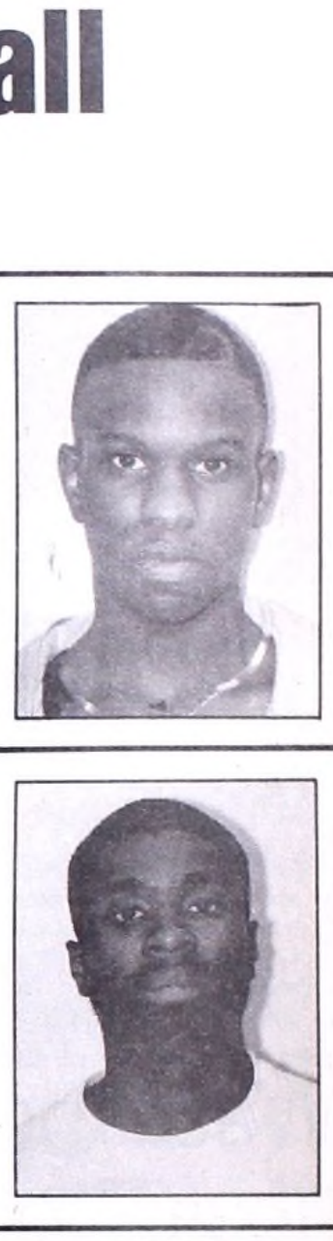
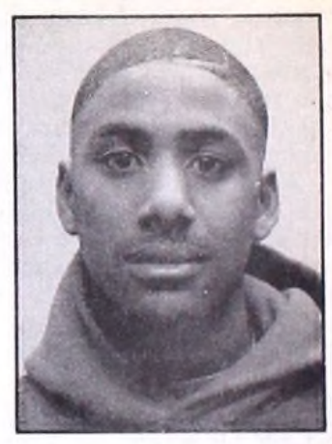
Nate Griffin, a 5-7 junior point-guard, came on strong at the end of the season and became instrumental in the Belleville success story in the playoffs. He scored at a 10-point clip and was credited with 6.5 assists per game. "I sincerely believe the success of this team at the end of the regular season was due, in part, because of Nate's leadership abilities. When he wasn't on the floor doing his thing, you could see and sense the change in our team," said Coach Michael Garland.



Greg Hartman is also an outstanding leader who, with a 3.4 grade point average, is academically-orientated. The 6-2 Wayne senior guard, with 11 ppg., was the Zebras' second-leading scorer. He was aggressive around the boards where he was able to grab six rebounds per game. "He's had a great three-year career here," said coach Chuck Henry. "I felt that Greg was the backbone of this team."

James Head definitely has a great future in the sport. At 6-6 and only a sophomore, Head could shatter a score of records before he hangs up his prep uniform at Plymouth-Salem. Coach Bob Brodie says the rugged cager is one of the most versatile he has coached. "He was the key to our team." Head had a 16-point per game scoring average . He also accounted for 12 rebounds per game. Along with those stats, he had seven assists per outing.

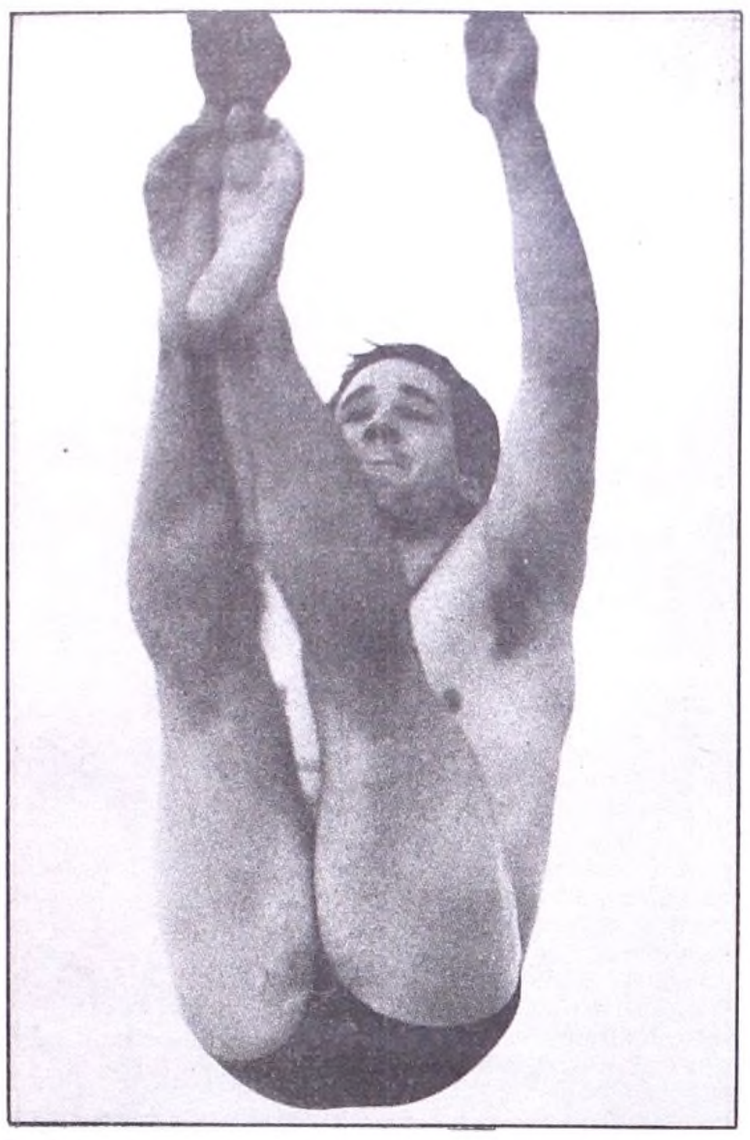


Micah Orr, a 5-10 senior guard for the John Glenn division-winning title team, was the Rockets' spark plug on defense. "You couldn't find a better player on defense than Orr," said Coach Pat Bennett." Not only tough on defense, Orr also made his mark on offense. He was the team's leading scorer with 11 ppg. And many of those baskets were three-pointers. A veteran player, who had earned two varsity stripes in basketball.

Derrick McDonald, with his driving layups and excellent speed, was an unstoppable force for the Chiefs of Canton. The 6-1 senior guard wound down his prep career with an enviable 16 points per game average and five assists. He also was an all-division pick after helping his teammates compiled a 19-4 overall record and repeat as a Class A district champion.

Carlos Johnson is a sharpshooter from the three-point range. Opponents might catch a glimpse of him as he breezes past on his way to the basket. The 5-6 1/2 senior guard scored in double figures in more than 85 percent of his games, and many from three-point range. "Carlos' problem was that he gave up shots," said Coach Spencer Grant, "and I felt he needed to shoot more." A deceptive ballhandler who had speed to burn.

Lee Williams earned his reputation as a hard-nosed defensive player for Wayne. The 5-10 senior guard also picked up his share of points, averaging eight per game. He contributed four assists. "We didn't really have any height on this team," said Coach Chuck Henry. "What we had were kids who really loved to play basketball. Kids like Lee Williams. He made a difference." That's another reason the Zebras surfaced as the Wolverine 'A' Conference champ.



All-American

Former Belleville High diving ace Gordie Clearwood (above) has earned All-American consideration for his performances in the national invitational as a member of the Ferris State University team. Clearwood finished 13th at the NCAA Division II Invitational after scoring 338.40 points. That finish provided the local diver an honorable mention on the All-American team. ANP Special Photo

Boys of summer

Time to sign up for baseball season is now

If baseball or softball is the name of your game, then there is plenty of action for you this summer on the local diamonds.

Parks and recreation department officials are seeking boys and girls of summer for their various leagues.

Wayne Parks and Recreation officials are seeking women for their "Over 25" softball league. The games will be played in the mornings on Wednesdays beginning May 27.

There is a $225 per team registration fee. For further information, telephone the recreation offices at 721-7400. The recreation offices are located at 4635 Howe Road.

In the meantime, the successful Westland Federation Baseball Club - the club has won several district and regional titles - is conducting tryouts for its summer travel baseball team. The tryouts will be staged at 3:30 p.m. on April 4 and April 12 and 5 p.m. on April 5 at the Westland Jaycees Park.

> "We have always been able to field a competitive team. We are looking forward to starting day."
> - Bill Hardin

The park is located on Hunter Street and Wildwood in Westland.

"We have always been able to field a competitive team," said Bill Hardin, one of two managers of the team. "We are looking forward to starting day."

Prospective players are asked to contact Hardin at 562-4667 or Paul Myrandi at 729-9185.

In the meantime, Inkster recreation officials are continuing their registration for the spring youth instructional baseball league and youth baseball technique clinic.

Parents who are interested in enrolling their future pro ball players in either the Pee Wee (ages 6-8); Midget (ages 9-12); Junior (ages 13- 14) or Senior (ages 15-16) leagues are requested to submit a $6 registration fee (no checks, please) to the recreation department.

Registration will be accepted from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the recreation offices, located at the Inkster Recreation Complex, 2025 Middlebelt Road.

Registration forms also are available at the Inkster-area schools during the same registration period.

Also, the popular recreation department baseball clinic will be conducted at noon, April 25, at the Inkster Complex. The clinic stresses baseball technique and fundamentals of the game.

Participants also will be advised of the latest rules and regulations of the national past-time.

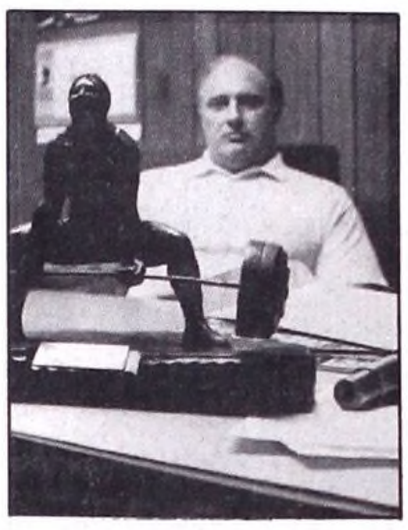
For further information, contact the Inkster recreation department at 728-7530.

Romulus lifter sets world record

Romulus business owner C.J. Batten set a record with his most recent "power play."

The Van Buren Township resident, who owns and operates Batten Corp. in Romulus, set a powerlifting mark in the World Powerlifting Association Championships in Lancaster, Pa.

Batten, 48, laid claim to his second consecutive WPA World Masters title in the 45-49-year-old bracket of his weight class. He set a new world record with a 465-pound bench press that broke his own existing world record. Batten now owns virtually all world and national records in his age and weight category, and his efforts in the WPA meet aided the USA team to finish first, followed by Canada.



C.J. Batten

The local champion is a member of the American Drug-Free Powerlifting Association which will compete in the WDFPF World Master Powerlifting Championships at Norwich, England, in July.

Batten owns and operates Batten Corp., a Romulus-based company which designs and manufactures automotive engine components for the "Big Three" automakers.

Westland, Inkster hosts hockey team

The cities of Westland and Inkster will play host to a record number of 88 American and Canadian Oldtimer hockey teams that will converge on the cities tomorrow.

The preliminary-rounds of the 1992 Seventh annual Vehicle City International Oldtimers Hockey Tournament games will be staged at eight area rinks, including those in Westland and Inkster.

The 88 team field is Canadian-dominated with 78 teams hailing from the Province of Ontario. Eight teams are from Michigan and the skaters also will be utilizing the rinks in Redford, Garden City, Dearborn Heights, Melvindale and Lincoln Park.

A standard round-robin format has each team playing three games against the other three teams in their respective division. Each team is carefully seeded based on such factors as overall player age and experience to match other squads in each respective four-team bracket.

The age groups include 35-and-over age divisions and 40-and-over divisions.

While the fast-paced, close-checking games will be an obvious fan attraction, a further subdued but important economic benefit will be player and family monies infused into local restaurants, hotel/motel and retail stores in the area.

Straub stars

Former All-Area outfielder Clint Straub hammered in the game-winning run as the University of Detroit Titans knocked off the Eastern Michigan Eagles 2-0.

Straub, ex-Westland John Glenn prep star, tripled in the third to give the Titans the first run of the game.

Head coach Bob Miller, now in his 28th year as mentor of the Titan baseball team, earned the 700th win of his coaching career with the triumph over the EMU Eagles.
